“ I wish to extend my most heartfelt condolences to all who loved Wanda. She was a beautiful, kind, thoughtful and sweet lady deeply loved by her close-knit family. Whenever I had the good fortune of seeing her she would most likely be surrounded by some of her beloved siblings and always so cheerful, graced with that beautiful smile while always sharing pleasantries. My mother Belle taught me much about the Dyes and how she loved being with their family as they often reminisced of growing up together sharing many treasured memories as relatives and rural neighbors. It is always a great joy seeing any of Wandas siblings as they are so warm and happy to share time and memories with you. I hope that some of the genuine loving kindness so natural to their family will surround and be of comfort to them now. Much love always. Carolyn Cahoon Watts
